SOLDIER'S HEART TRAINING

We are pleased to invite you to apply for Southcentral Foundation's Soldier's Heart training. This six-day educational training is designed for veterans and first responders who have experienced post-traumatic stress. It aims to reduce the symptoms of post-traumatic stress, provide community to talk about shared experiences, and re-categorize post-traumatic stress as a normal response to extreme events. This training is named "Soldier's Heart" in honor of a common title used by physicians during the Civil War.

May 31 - Jun 6, 2019
3210 Lark Street
Anchorage, Alaska

- Presenters share personal stories and teach topics from a curriculum designed to address matters faced by first responders and veterans who have experienced trauma.
- Based in Anchorage with travel for seasonal recreational activities.
- This is an educational experience, not a clinical, medical, or diagnostic program. Staff does not record notes and the training does not affect your medical record.
- Free of cost; transportation, food, and lodging are included during the training.
- In order to create a supportive environment, alcohol, marijuana and illegal substances are prohibited during the training.
- Participants will be invited to provide feedback to help improve the training.
- Soldier's Heart is not a professional development training.

To apply, submit the attached application to soldiersheart@southcentralfoundation.com or via confidential fax 907-729-5405 by April 30th, 2019. For more information or questions, the Soldier's Heart Program at 907-729-6671.

Thank you for your interest in attending a Soldier's Heart training. We look forward to the possibility of partnering with you to strengthen families in Alaska.

Sincerely,

Soldier's Heart Staff

I understand that the Soldier's Heart Training is an educational program for veterans and first responders who have experienced post-traumatic stress and aims to remove the stigma associated with PTS and to re-categorize it as a normal human response. I understand this training is not intended to substitute for mental health, addictive, medical, pastoral, legal, or other professional services. I understand this is not a clinical, medical or diagnostic program and that as an educational program, no documentation, notes, nor recording of mental health information are conducted. I also understand that if expert assistance is required, I should seek the services of a competent professional.

I understand that due to the nature and content of this training, and in order to create a supportive environment, participants are asked to forego the use of substances or unhealthy "numbing" methods (such as alcohol, marijuana, illegal substances and pornography) which may impact your ability to be entirely present for the process of the training. I understand that I may not room with my spouse and that family, guests, and visitors are not allowed on-site or in my room. I understand in order to be approved in the application process; I must agree to participate by being present throughout the entire training.

Submitting this information does not mean I have been accepted to attend this training. By my signature, I am indicating that I read and understand these statements and verify that all information on this form and any accompanying documents are true to the best of my knowledge.

DEFINITIONS OF TRAUMA AND ABUSE

Trauma and abuse can result from bad things that happen to us (e.g. war and domestic violence) as well as from the absence of things in our lives (e.g. lack of joy at home, abandonment, malnutrition).

Sexual Assault: the use of physical force of a sexual nature or anything that forces a person to join in unwanted sexual contact, including rape, exhibitionism, and voyeurism.

Domestic Violence: A pattern of coercive behaviors used to establish control over another person through fear, intimidation, emotional abuse or social isolation; often including the use of or threat of physical or sexual violence. Domestic violence victims most often feel like they are walking on eggshells because they never know when more violence will come. Domestic Violence can occur with members outside of your direct household and often involves behaviors in multiple categories of abuse including, but not limited to, Physical Abuse, Verbal Abuse, Emotional Abuse, Social Abuse, Financial Abuse, and Spiritual Abuse.

Physical Abuse is any kind of physical harm – from hair pulling, squeezing, hitting, slapping, pushing and kicking, to use of bodily actions and weapons to threaten, punish, dominate, restrain, control or injure another person.

Verbal Abuse is when words are used to threaten, intimidate or distance another. It can take on many forms including criticizing, use of sarcasm, yelling, harsh scolding, name-calling, belittling, ranting, and crude or foul language. Disparaging comments disguised as jokes, continual blame-shifting, being argumentative, or excessive nagging are examples of verbal abuse.

Physical Sexual Abuse is much broader than intercourse, penetration or masturbation. It includes any touching, rubbing or patting that is meant to arouse sexual pleasure in the offender.

Verbal Sexual Abuse can include sexual comments about the child's body, suggestive comments, lewd remarks or sexual threats.

Spiritual Abuse is the misuse of God, the Bible or religious beliefs to manipulate or control another person. This may include misuse of Scriptures outside the intent of the meaning to control or manipulate. For example, parents who use Scripture to intimidate and get certain behavior from children (“honor your Father and your Mother”) or spouses who demand submission or sex (“Your body is not your own”). Other forms of spiritual abuse can include leaders who portray God as a severe judge who demands perfection in thought and deed, implying a person will never measure up or be accepted.

Service Related Trauma occurs as a result of witnessing or enacting the horrifying scenes of war. Service Related Trauma is a broad category that ranges from acute stress reactions that are time limited to Post-Traumatic Stress which may last for many years. It normally develops after exposure to a terrifying event or ordeal in which severe physical harm occurred, was witnessed, or was threatened to occur. Traumatic events that may trigger Service Related Trauma at include violent personal assaults to oneself or others, military combat and accidents.

Post-Traumatic Stress (PTS) is a common response that occurs when a person is exposed to a traumatic event. Any of the abuses and/or traumas listed above can result in PTS, regardless of age or gender.
